After reading Warcraft Chronicle 1 and 2 I wanted more of that juicy Warcraft lore! I started reading Knaak's War of the Ancients but I soon found out that Dawn of the Aspects is chronologically set before War of the Ancients. I chose to read Dawn of the Aspects series first. However, I quickly grew confused because I didn't know who Kalec was.

In World of Warcraft we know the Aspects as the great Dragonkin leaders. But we have not really seen how they all came together and became those great leaders we know today. Dawn of the Aspects took you back to the beginning and showed you five dragons who were very different that came together for a common cause and by the end became something more then any thought they would be.

Dawn of the Aspects covers the beginnings of some of my favourite Warcraft characters - the Dragon Aspects. Their lore has always fascinated me, and while this book is a very fun and thrilling ride, there's so many small issues and inconsistencies that become very, very distracting whilst reading it.

So far, I've seen Argent Dawn guys offering this for 10 Necrotic Shards in Ironforge, Stormwind and Light's Hope Chapel. You need to complete Under The Shadow first, where you hand in 10 Necrotic Soul Shards to that Argent Dawn guy in Light's Hope. Then you can trade in more Shards for other rewards, among them the Tabard.

The Argent Dawn were an organization focused on protecting Azeroth from the threats that seek to destroy it, such as the Burning Legion and the Scourge. Since the Shattering of Azeroth, the Argent Dawn have been merged by Tirion Fordring with his Knights of the Silver Hand, forming a new faction, the Argent Crusade.
