Ilokano is spoken in the northern Luzon region of the Philippines, and is sometimes called the national language of the north. It is spoken by about 9 million people, including large communities of Ilocanos in Hawaii and California. Although non-Tagalog Philippine languages are often called dialects, they are actually unique languages and Ilokano is not mutually intelligible with Tagalog.

Ilokano - English to English Translation

Ilocano has the same 5 vowels as English. These letters make the same sound all the time, regardless of where they are in a word. However, the vowels make somewhat different sounds than you might be used to. The 5 Ilocano vowels sound as follows: The letter "a" makes an "ah" sound, similar to the "a" in the English word "father."
